

UTAH MINING MEN CALL MASS MEETING

Proposed Legislation Affecting Industry Will Be Discussed Saturday Night.

ASK RESEARCH STATION

Utah Chapter of Organization Indorses Measure by Senator Ferry.

A big mass meeting will be held next Saturday evening in the Commercial club at 8 o'clock by the Utah chapter, American Mining congress, to plan a campaign for suitable legislation affecting the mining industry. The chapter met at the club last night and decided to call the meeting, to which every member of the organization and all interested in mining are invited. The question of having the state establish an experiment station, mine tax, and other matters will be discussed. W. E. Vignus, secretary, was authorized to address letters to members and others urging them to be present.

After President Duncan MacVichie called the meeting to order last night the principal topic was the bill proposed in the senate by Senator W. E. Ferry providing for an annual appropriation of $15,000 to build and maintain a mining and metallurgical research department at the Utah engineering school. The bill is connected with the school of mines. The department will conduct experiments with the state or co-operate with the national bureau of mines. The money is to be expended under direction of the board of regents of the University of Utah.

Addresses were made by Professor Joseph E. Merrill, Professor C. E. Allen, Judge W. H. King, George Dorn, Senator Ferry and others. It was pointed out that the state is very liberal to the agricultural interests in building roads and making other improvements, that this industry also has received great aid from the United States government, but that the mining industry was not so fortunate. Mr. Dorn said the mine owners had to build their own roads and make all the necessary improvements at their own expense.

Senator Ferry said he thought his bill would be passed, but if it encountered any difficulty it would be through members of the house. He denounced certain legislation proposed by the committee appointed by Governor Spry on tax revision. One bill would not permit the mine owners to deduct the amount spent on improvements when computing their net profits. Senator Ferry declared such a measure would result practically in taxing the gross receipts of mines. He denounced it as vicious and almost criminal.

Judge King spoke of the expected return from a visit he and others received from Washington, D. C., where they went in the interest of tariff measures affecting Utah industries. The duty on lead ore, he said, was now 15 cents. He thought that when the bill got through congress it would provide either for a specific duty of 1 1/2 cents or an ad valorem duty that would be equivalent to that amount.

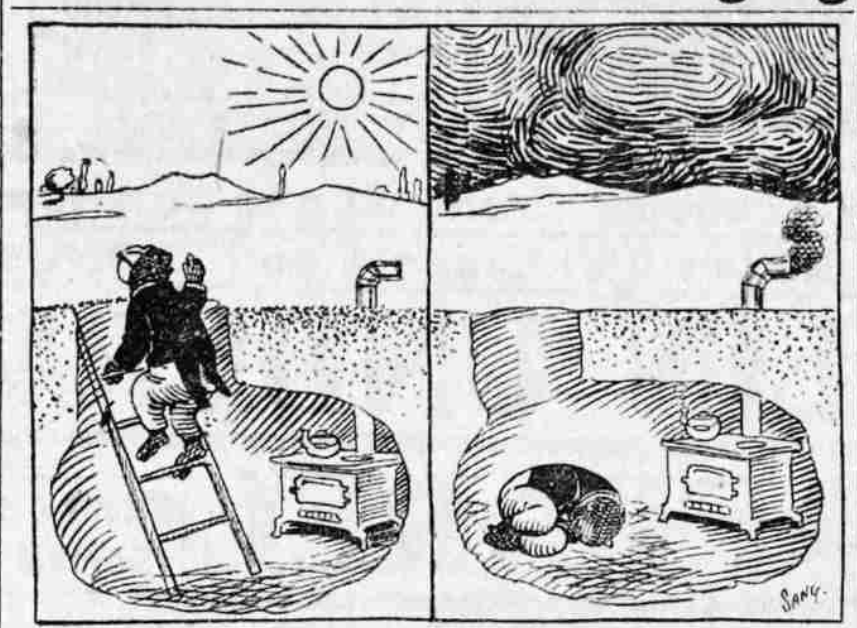

A committee consisting of Professor Allen, Judge King, Mr. Dorn, President MacVichie and G. W. Lambourn was appointed to work among members of the legislature and report to the chapter from time to time. Frequent meetings will be held during the session of the legislature.

The Return of Blood Eruptions

No Reason Why Anyone Should Suffer With Such a Disheartening Experience.

No case of contagious blood poison is cured until the last particle of virus has been removed from the circulation. The least taint left in the blood will, sooner or later, cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous and destructive symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored blotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. No other medicine so surely cures contagious blood poison as S. S. S. It draws down into the blood and steadily and surely drives out every particle of the infection. It absolutely and perfectly purifies the blood, and leaves this vital fluid as fresh, rich and healthy as it was before the destructive virus of contagious blood poison entered the circulation. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear. At all spots, sores and other blemishes, the hair stops coming out, the mouth and throat heal and when S. S. S. has cleansed the system of the poison no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S. cures contagious blood poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven in hundreds and hundreds of cases all over the country. You will find S. S. S. for sale in all drug stores at 50 cents per bottle. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for private medical advice and a very instructive book on all blood diseases, sent free, sealed in plain wrapper.

Groundhog's Snooze Ends His Alarm Clock Ringing

Will His Shadow Portend
Winter for a Month or Six Weeks Longer?

TODAY is groundhog day—the day upon which that picturesque and estimable rodent, sometimes referred to as the woodchuck, will vie with the also estimable and popular Mr. Thiessen in the matter of a weather prediction for the ensuing six weeks.

The woodchuck, otherwise groundhog, is an exceedingly interesting little animal. He really is an unabridged edition of the ground squirrel and a distant relative of the prairie dog and the hedgehog. He is larger than the polecat and considerably less in evidence. It is really the simplest thing in the world, however, to positively identify a groundhog, if an identification becomes necessary. If you capture a small, exceedingly hairy animal with a stump of a tail and discover that the infraorbital foramen is only represented by a small anterior foramen, the zygomatic process of the upper jaw being an immovable, thin and oblique plate, which rises from the general level and forms a dead wall in front of the orbit, you may be reasonably sure that you have a groundhog in your possession. But you should not be too cocksure! You also should see that the lower jaw has its descending ramus subquadrate, the upper angle acute and sub-erect and the lower rounded, or sub-truncate and bent inward.

Habits Uncertain.

The groundhog is a peculiar little animal. When you are not looking for him he may be found at various points between New York City and San Francisco and from the extreme northern portion of Canada to the Cape of Good Hope. The groundhog is a vegetarian and his habitat is a burrow, usually in a hillside. His menu consists largely of green herbage and garden truck and his meal hours comprise the early morning and the late evening. During the remainder of the day the groundhog remains at home and receives his friends. In the early autumn the groundhog always builds up an appetite that would put a poor relation to shame and literally devours everything in sight. The result is that by the time the chill winds of winter are sighing around the locality of his home he could easily qualify in a fat man's rating. He then retires to his bedroom, sets his alarm clock for February 2 and falls into the peaceful slumber that is supposed to come to a baby, but never does when father is at home.

Shadow Dread Portent.

Promptly at noon, or, to be explicit, a few minutes preceding the noon hour on February 2, Mr. Groundhog kicks off the covers, salutes his wife, makes a few desultory remarks about how the children have grown during his nap, and hikes for the outer world. When he arrives on the outside he blinks his eyes until they have become accustomed to the light, perches himself upon his hind legs and makes a careful survey of the immediate surroundings. The next thing he does is to peer around for his shadow. If the sun is shining and the shadow is visible, he at once scampers back to his burrow and seeks the feathers for another six weeks. This action on his part means that there will be six weeks of additional winter weather. If he does not see his shadow the moon hour is based on the weather predictions for the ensuing six weeks. On that particular day, in the localities referred to, the national weather bureau and Mr. I. L. Hicks, the almanac expert, are out of it, for it is conceded that the groundhog is supreme.

Criterion of Prophets.

In the middle western states, especially, as well as in the south and portions of the west, groundhog day is eagerly awaited and upon the fact of whether or not he sees his shadow at the noon hour is based the weather predictions for the ensuing six weeks. On that particular day, in the localities referred to, the national weather bureau and Mr. I. L. Hicks, the almanac expert, are out of it, for it is conceded that the groundhog is supreme.

Strike at Scranton.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 1.—As a part of the campaign that has been waged for months in the interest of a 100 per cent union organization of mine workers throughout the anthracite field, about 5000 employees of the Lackawanna Coal company struck today at eight o'clock. They refused to work with non-union men, engineers being included in this list, the miners insisting that they should belong to their organization.

BILL ON LIVESTOCK SHIPMENTS IN VIEW

Stringent Measure Is to Be Introduced in House by
B. F. Hammond.

B. F. Hammond, of Mead, Grand county, a member of the house, is expected soon to introduce a bill for the rigid inspection of livestock offered for shipment either as interstate or intrastate commerce. The object of the measure is to stamp out every kind of disease among cattle, sheep, horses and hogs in Utah, and also to prevent the disposition of stock by "rustlers."

The measure will provide that an inspector is to be appointed in each county by the sheriff. The inspector will receive $5 a day and his traveling expenses. In order to meet this expense the owner of stock inspected will be charged for the service at the rate of $1 for each carload up to five carloads and twenty cents for each additional carload.

Shippers of stock will be required to notify the inspectors of their intention and to designate the shipping point in ample time for the inspectors to reach the place and make the inspection before the shipping date. In case the inspection is delayed through the fault of the owner, the latter is required to pay for lost time.

Provision makes it unlawful for any railroad company to receive stock for shipment that has not been inspected. Failure to comply with these provisions is made a misdemeanor. In reaching the cattle "rustlers," the bill provides that when the inspector is in doubt about the identity of the owner of stock offered for shipment, he is empowered to hold the stock and to advertise for the owner, giving a description of the animals. If the ownership is established, the owner is to pay for the cost of advertising and for the keep of the stock from the time the ownership became obscured. In the event that no one claims the animals, they are to be sold and the money received for them is to be turned into the general fund of the county. By this means it is rendered impossible for a person to ship stock which is not his own. If any person ships stock by rail which has not first been inspected, he is made a felon and upon conviction may be fined from $500 to $5000, or sentenced to the state's prison for a term of from one to three years.

A system of records is required, the inspectors to file accurate account of their work every month.

Sullivan Enters Denial.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Roger C. Sullivan, eastward Democratic national committee man from Illinois, referring to gossip using his name as a candidate for United States senator, today denied any ambition in that line.

Any man who mentions my name in connection with the toga is no friend of mine," said Sullivan.

Aged Educator Dies.

SALINA, Kan., Feb. 1.—Dr. Aaron Schuyler, professor of mathematics and mental philosophy at Kansas Wesleyan university here, and widely known throughout the country as a philosopher, sociologist and educator, died here today. He was 85 years old.

HOW AN INDIANA GIRL

Got Strong and Well Again at Small Cost.

Miss Alta Abel, of West Baden, Ind., says: "I was a complete wreck, always tired, worn out and nervous. I had to spend about one-third of my time in bed and my life was not worth living. Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, was recommended, and it has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained in health, flesh and strength, until I feel like another person."

Vinol is the most efficient strength-creator for such women. It is the medicinal elements of the cod's livers contained in Vinol, aided by the blood-making and strengthening properties of tonic iron, which makes it so far superior to all other tonics to build up health and strength for weak, tired, ailing women. It contains no oil and has a delicious taste.

We give back your money if Vinol does not do all that we claim. P. S. If you have any skin trouble try Sarsaparilla. Guaranteed by Dr. J. C. Frankel, Druggist, 1111 Broadway, New York City, and 271 South Main St., Salt Lake City, Utah.

SALT LAKE WOMAN DIES IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 1.—Winning a race across the continent with death, Mrs. Ellen A. Kornick of Salt Lake reached the home of her parents here. Then death triumphed. Extreme unction was administered to her at Chicago, where the last lap of the journey of more than 3000 miles from Los Angeles was begun. Mrs. Kornick was taken ill at Los Angeles, where she had gone with her husband to spend the winter, on account of her health. She died on her way back to Baltimore to die and the start was made on Friday, January 24.

For two days after her arrival here she lay in bed, her family faithfully over and over again. Ten minutes before she died she expressed the desire that her eight brothers should act as her pallbearers.

Immigration Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Immigration bill in controversy between the house and senate and several times finally was adopted today by the senate in the form agreed on by the conference committee. It now goes to the president for signature.

The bill provides for a "certificate of character" provision against which there was much protest, was eliminated, as was a provision which would have made it difficult to deport criminals.

EXCURSIONISTS ARE OFF FOR THE COAST

Three Special Trains Leave
Salt Lake City for Los Angeles.

The Salt Lake route yesterday sent more than 900 persons toward southern California on their annual midwinter excursion. Six trains were loaded with prominent citizens of Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and Utah. Many from Idaho and Montana came to Salt Lake City several days ago and have been waiting here to catch the first train, in the meantime spending their time and some of their money in this city.

All of the trains left on time, and early reports from Caliente last night stated that the three sections of the first special train had been delivered to the Los Angeles division of the road on time. More than 600 of the excursionists are on the first special train, and the manner in which A. F. Brewer, superintendent of the Utah division of the Oregon Short Line, has charged the depot and yards of the Harriman lines here, handled the trains and the crowd was admirable.

Good Team Work.

Superintendent H. E. Van Hosen of the Salt Lake division of the Salt Lake route assisted Mr. Brewer, as did also A. E. Barker, union depot master, and the entire force depot and yard employees did just what was expected of them. The three long passenger trains, sections of the special, were drawn up before the depot at the same time, each a doubleheader, and the more than 600 passengers were guided into their respective berths as though by magic.

About 300 of the excursionists, who could not obtain berths, or for other reasons, did not go on the first train, went either on regular train No. 1, or No. 2, which was guided into the yard with rush, though, was with the first special train. J. H. Manderfield, assistant general freight and passenger agent for the Salt Lake route, who was really in charge of the big excursion and undoubtedly had more to do with its magnitude, said regarding it last night:

Our men at the depot and also along the line seem to have handled the trains in the proper way and I believe every one who went on the excursion will be well satisfied. More than 80 per cent of the tickets return over our line, and the others will return either by way of San Francisco or Portland.

One-fourth From Zion.

Less than 25 per cent of our excursionists are from Salt Lake City. In fact, fully one-half of the number that filled the three trains came from Idaho and some of the best of the excursionists are from there. Before starting, about 150 persons came down from Montana over the Oregon Short Line in special equipment that we had provided for them. 450 came from Idaho, and the rest from Salt Lake City and other points in Utah.

H. S. Twining, district superintendent of the Pullman company, provided us with excellent equipment, and had it where we wanted it on time. We saw and saw each train to look after the personal needs of the passengers, and we know that they will be provided with every convenience both along the route and at Los Angeles and San Diego.

With so many coming in from outside the state, for a few came from Wyoming in addition to the large number from Idaho and Montana, I believe the money brought into the state and the general good that the excursion will do for Salt Lake City will far outweigh the harm by some money being taken to California.

HEAVY WESTWARD TRAVEL.

Oregon Short Line and Western Pacific Send Out Special Trains.

The Western Pacific sent out about 100 persons toward San Francisco yesterday in addition to the regular passengers. It required extra equipment, and train No. 1 left Salt Lake City in two sections yesterday afternoon. Most of the excursionists will return over the same road, although some have their tickets returning by way of Portland or Los Angeles. A. W. Raybould, traveling passenger agent for the company, accompanied the extra section of the train to Denver or the Oregon Short Line to Ogden yesterday, from where they will be taken to San Francisco over the Southern Pacific.

Railroad Notes.

The city offices of the Salt Lake Route will be opened in the Judge building at No. 16 East Third South street Monday morning. Moving operations were begun yesterday afternoon, as soon as the three special trains had been started for Los Angeles. On the first floor of the judge building the Salt Lake Route will occupy the space formerly occupied by the Illinois Central, Chicago & Alton, Colorado and Northern, and the Battell Home Builders' company.

S. V. Derrah, assistant general freight agent for the Denver & Rio Grande, with headquarters in that city, has gone to Denver on a short business trip.

H. M. Cushing, traveling passenger agent for the Denver & Rio Grande, returned yesterday from Colorado Springs, where he accompanied the Blue Bird theatrical troupe. He left this morning with the rabbit hunt excursion to Mt. Pleasant. Rabbit hunting are the theme of the Mt. Pleasant Gun club, which will provide vehicles to take them to the hunting grounds, and guarantee to take the hunters where rabbits are thickest.

ENORMOUS SUM SPENT FOR STRIKE RELIEF

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Almost $750,000 was spent for strike relief work by the United Mine Workers of America during the year ended December 1, 1912, according to the report of the international auditing committee, which was completed today. Most of this went into West Virginia.

The total expenses incurred during the year amounted to $1,108,991.49, of which $269,036.35 was for salaries. The balance on hand on December 1 was $221,282.05.

Proposes Heavy Penalty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Representative Clayton of Alabama introduced a bill today to impose a fine of not more than $1000, or a prison term of not more than three years, or both, upon any person falsely pretending to be an officer or employee of the United States in order to obtain possession of money, documents or anything of value.

WOOLGROWERS AND WOOLBUYERS MEET

Question of Baling Clips Is Principal Matter Under Discussion.

A deferred meeting of woolgrowers and woolbuyers was held in the Hotel Utah yesterday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the question of baling wool. There was a good representation from both buyers and growers and the details of the matter were thoroughly gone over. At the close of the meeting a resolution was unanimously passed which was in effect that sheepmen in the west do not advocate baling of wool under its present preparation for market until such a time as baling will be beneficial instead of detrimental.

Letters were read from eastern firms at the meeting protesting against the system of baling. Reasons set forth are that wool when baled becomes packed and hard and is difficult to examine, which injures it in the sight of the buyer. An article in the October 19, 1912, issue of the National Woolgrower, which gave some reasons why wool in the west should not be baled, was read by C. P. Pruitt.

The contenting questions are that wool can be sent cheaper over the railroads if it is baled and the buyers say it will sell cheaper, so that the lower freight rates will more than be balanced. Among those present at the meeting were the woolgrowers: S. T. Rigby, T. W. Jones and Harden Bennion of Salt Lake City; Walter Steadman of Sandy, and J. D. Noblitt of Cokeville, Wyo. For the buyers there were present: J. R. Edgell, Jesse Goodfellow, J. A. Kearns and Albert Erickson.
